DISCOVERY

Sustainable Urban & Rural Development

The cross-disciplinary summer program is designed for undergraduate students from partner universities. It allows students from various backgrounds to explore freely the issues of industrialization, ranging from the Urban & Rural Development especially in Asia, cultural heritage conservation, environmental concerns, transportation, disaster prevention, to aging population. Scheduled activities include lecture, on-site visit, group discussion, brainstorming and presentation, enabling students to form their own opinion through constant absorption of facts, and encouraging bold expression from a unique perspective.
